The South Downs Way: Described East-West and West-East (British Long Distance Trails) Kev Reynolds

The South Downs Way National Trail is a glorious 100-mile (160km) walk between Winchester and Eastbourne, passing entirely through the South Downs National Park. Described in 12 daily stages, the route is described in both east-west and west-east directions. The South Downs Way is a waymarked bridleway with very few stiles, and the trail can be walked at any time of year. The step-by-step route descriptions are illustrated with extracts from OS mapping for every stage, and detailed practical information is included on getting to the trail, facilities and accommodation en route.
